THE WAR TAX

Although the great European war has been going on for over six months it is only now that we in Canada are beginning to fully realize the seriousness of "the situation and that Canada, too, is in very sorry at war. The Princess Pats have been in the firing line and the first Canadian contingent is now in France. According to latest reports many of them have taken their places in the trenches and each casualty list published contains the names of those with whom we have been identified. All this serves to bring the seriousness of the situation nearer home and impress upon us the importance of the ultimate outcome of the conflict.

The budget speech as presented to the house of commons last week by the minister of finance is another impressive reminder. In order that Canada may be in a better position to do her share in the present war, would publish such an estimate of the large falling off of revenue as a result of the war, the finance minister proposes a system of taxation which is new to Canada, and by which everyone will be contributing his mite for the cause. There has been no successful criticism of the finance minister's proposed war tax. On the contrary those who are not enlisting will only be too willing to do their share in the way of a little extra tax.

The taxes on railway and steamboat tickets, bank notes, etc., are in accordance with the most enlightened practice in other countries under similar circumstances. The fact that taxation means that the whole community will be assisting without pressing too heavily upon any class. True there may be some who will try to rake up schemes to evade the tax, but the truly patriotic one, who means what he says when he boasts of the solidity of the Empire in this struggle, will do his share willingly and ungrudgingly.

If we would only think of the thousands of poor homeless Belgians, who have not even a roof to cover their heads, the people of Russian Poland driven from their homes by the ruthless march of the Germans, of Serbians suffering from Austrian invasion and of the thousands of Italians left homeless or worse by earthquakes, perhaps many of us who have been inclined to grumble at conditions here, will be glad we are here and able to help in some small way to relieve the distress and avenge the wrongs that have been done.

A GENEROUS GIFT

At the annual convention of the Grain Growers Association of Saskatchewan, held in Regina last week it was decided that the farmers of that province give the product of one acre of land to the patriotic fund. It is estimated that 15,000 farmers will enter into this agreement. As the average yield of wheat in that province is 18 bushels to the acre this will mean a yield of 270,000 bushels, which if sold at $1.25 a bushel will produce $337,500 for this fund.

Such a contribution from the farmers of one province is the most eloquent testimony, not only to their loyalty but to their generosity. Next to going to the front one's self, perhaps the best test of one's loyalty is readiness to support those there.

A FALSE ALARM

An editorial in last Friday's Medicine Hat News has been the cause of a lot of unnecessary worry and inconvenience to the farmers of this district. The article says the Dominion government is not going to give seed grain to farmers who are on patented lands and as a result these farmers are in a particularly difficult situation. Many farmers on patented lands in this district have made application for seed to the government and have received word to the effect that their applications were satisfactory and the seed would be shipped in good season. When they read or heard the article in the News some of them came as far as 20 miles to the relief agent here to learn if this was true and if the government had changed its mind in the matter.

In the same issue of the News and in a column paralleling the editorial in question, a news item appears which says, "Hon. W. J. Roche, minister of the interior, said he proposed to do everything possible to relieve the situation. It had been decided, he explained, to supply seed grain to all settlers in the drought area, who cannot look after themselves, irrespective of whether or not they have secured the patents for their lands."

In view of this fact it is hard to understand why the News would publish such an editorial unless it was to add additional worry, inconvenience and trouble to the farmers of this district in their already none too rosy condition.

"UNJUST CRITICISM"

"An editorial in last Monday's edition of the Medicine Hat Times accused the Review of unjust criticism because of an article which appeared in this paper regarding the establishing of some reciprocal agreement between the two towns with respect to auto livery and dray licenses. The Times concludes its article by saying: "It is the editor of the Review is not familiar with the whole story." If the editor of the Times would take a walk over to the city hall and make a few inquiries about the case he will realize he did not know the first thing about it and was therefore not in a position to write anything fairly or intelligently. He has evidently gotten his information from a disgruntled drayman or his friends. We are glad to inform our readers that the Times has misrepresented the whole affair and that there is still a possibility of the two councils coming to some agreement. As suggested in the Review several months ago in this respect.

IT LOOKS UNFAIR

In looking over the proposed new liquor act which will be voted on next July we notice one clause which says: "The burden of proof in the case of a party charged with keeping, to sell or give liquor, shall be on the person so accused." To one who has read this does not look like a fair deal, nor is it in keeping with the principal among other lines throughout the whole English speaking world, that "a man is innocent until he is proven guilty." Besides being unfair it is liable to open up avenues for all kinds of unpleasantness and trouble. For instance if one man had a spite against another he could lay a charge against him for selling or giving away liquor. The informant could then go away back and sit down and enjoy the trouble, inconvenience and embarrassment he had put the accused to, to prove he was innocent. The accused could then do the same thing with the first informant and so the strife could be kept up indefinitely. The onus of proof should be the same in this case as in all other cases if it is to be fair and work out to the best advantage to all concerned.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK

From every section of the province comes the swelling note of optimism. buoyed up by the prospect of a fair price for everything they can produce, the farmers of the province are going to do their part this year towards bringing in the biggest harvest Alberta has yet produced. Conditions are ideal. A blanket of snow has lain on the districts that were burned out last season, insuring an abundance of moisture for the new crop, and putting the soil into just the right condition. Crop prices are anything next fall like they are now, according to the opinion of those who know, next season's farm products will pass the $100,000,000 mark.

There is every indication at present that farmers are going to experience some difficulty in getting seed potatoes for next spring. This may mean a great scarcity of this very necessary food and, naturally, a very high price for them next fall. In view of this possibility the question of garden plots in vacant lands in towns and cities is again being taken up by town and city councils throughout the west. There are a few vacant lots in Redcliff which might be used for this purpose and there is no doubt the town and city would come in very handy next fall. All that is necessary is that some one make the move. Who's going to do it?

A statement in the house of commons from the chancellor of the exchequer, Mr. Lloyd George, to the effect that Great Britain is prepared to finance the war for five years longer without going outside for aid, should cause our German friends to do some serious thinking.

"There will be no exhibition in Winnipeg this year." This was definitely decided on a meeting of the board held last week.

GETTING TOGETHER
 IS THE POLICY

Relations of Farmers and Manufacturers—President Gordon and Mr. Charles Dunning

The recent annual meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in Montreal was noteworthy for the fact that Mr. Charles Dunning, manager of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Company at Regina, delivered, on special invitation, a striking address on the relations of farmers and manufacturers. Mr. Dunning's frank but friendly address was heartily received by the manufacturers, who found much to ponder over in the remarks on the relations of the farmers and the manufacturers, and the East and the West.

Mr. C. H. Gordon, the retiring President of the C.M.A., in his annual address, spoke in some measure along same lines as Mr. Dunning, emphasizing the desirability of better relations being established between the farmers and the manufacturers. He pointed out that a great deal of the friction arose through misunderstanding.

BEAR NO III WILL
 Commenting on the meeting, "The Journal of Commerce" of Montreal, of which Hon. W. S. Fleming, Minister of Finance, is the Minister Government, le editor, deals at length with the question of the relations of farmers and the manufacturers.

"President Gordon of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association has made an instructive and frank, fair-minded address yesterday afternoon on the present economic situation in Canada. He pointed out that it is that it cannot be endured by all. It is referring to find that a representative of a particular class, a detached view of an admittedly delicate situation in which class interests are largely predominant. The extremists on both sides sometimes use language which tends to needlessly broaden the differences between manufacturer and farmer. The leading editorial in a recent issue of a well known farmer's paper is a case in point. It is a case in which the Liberal and the Conservative parties in the Province of Ontario, was held up to mockery criticism. Because these views said to deal exclusively with the interests of town and city dwellers and had little or nothing to say of the place and part of the farmer in our social economy. The truth is, that the tremendous development, that has taken place on the American continent, and the last generation has been largely urban development, with European people on the farm, has been a fact. It is perfectly true, as Mr. Gordon suggests, that neither the artisan nor the manufacturing class have any right toward the farming class. Nor is there any ill-will on the part of the farmers towards the manufacturers. The interests of the two classes come at times to conflict. It should be the work of thoughtful men on both sides to diminish the causes of difference and to bring about that friendly co-operation that is needed for the success of all.

Mr. Gordon's remarks on the question of our tariff policy were moderate in tone, and were largely approved. He told his audience in no uncertain terms that they should not look for any immediate or considerable increase in the tariff, but rather that the future development of the tariff should be along scientific lines, modified as it must be from time to time to meet most particular problems. Naturally, he claims the tariff is not responsible for any apparent lack of success in the farming industry. He appealed to the farmers to take advantage of the fact and continually increasing home market for cattle and dairy products, and drew attention to the contention that what farming is a losing game in the West. The opinion was advanced that our Western farmers must adopt the mixed farming methods of the East if they are to meet with the fullest measure of success. He deplored the fact that our stock industry is not as prosperous as it ought to be, and maintained that the tariff could not in any way be blamed for the state of affairs. Rather, he found here a particular instance in which the tariff might be modified to meet a particular need.

When those who entertain views on the tariff question which are not exactly in line with what we find means to address for approval.

Every city starting a city market has the consumers and the market building, or must provide the building. Farmers in the vicinity must be encouraged to raise the farm products for the market. The market started this year with some realism that there is much in it.

THE CENTURY OF PEACE

(Christ: God Save the King: America).
Two empires by the sea.
Ferventest great and free.
One among nations.
One race of nations.
One tongue, one faith we claim.
One God, whose glorious name
We love and praise.
What deeds our fathers wrought,
What battles we have fought,
Let fame record.
Now, vengeful passion, cease.
Come, victor of peace.
Nor hate nor pride's caprice
Unsheath the sword.

Though deep the sea and wide,
Twist realm and realm, its tide
Hinds strand to strand.
So be the gulf between
Grey coasts and islands green,
With bonds of peace serene
And friendship spans'd.
Now may our God above
Guard the dear lands we love,
Both east and west.
Let love more fervent glow
As peaceful ages go,
And strength yet stronger grow,
Blessing and blest.

Rural Development

League is Formed

At the Rural Development League dinner in Oils, Alberta last week when delegates were present from all parts of the province, the following platform for the league was inaugurated:

"To secure the co-operation of all who are, or who may become, interested in the development of farm lands of Alberta, in organized action for such development."

To advertise the agricultural resources of the province of Alberta.

To bring home-makers into the province and locate them on the land in the best places for their special purposes giving them reliable information and securing for them the cheapest and best land to be had.

To effect a distribution of the population of the province so as to place 70 per cent. of the people on farms and no more than 30 per cent. in the urban centres.

To bring land at present unproductive, under cultivation; this to have particular reference to lands in, or near, cities and towns.

A REMARKABLE PHENOMENON.

Many a one has heard of the saying about two moons in the sky, and marvelled. This year, there are 19 full moons, one more than usual. January had two, February none, and March two. The same thing happened in 1866, and was the creation of the world. Some astronomers said it wouldn't happen again for 2,500,000 years, but the moon was full twice again this year in January and March, keeping sober for February. Let astronomers or men in science account for this.

GERMAN PAPER SAYS

WILL SINK U. S. SHIPS.

The Deutsche Tags Zeitung echoes the American suggestion that German submarines shall investigate the identity of flying neutral flags before sinking them. The very declaration of a war zone, the newspaper says, implies that no guarantee of safety within it is possible. "Why," it asks, "should submarines be expected to trouble about the identity of ships any more than floating mines should trouble? If after Thursday next American ships are sunk in British waters, the U. S. alone is responsible. In any case, the German government does not intend to allow itself to be influenced by the pressure of threats."

COST OF LIVING IS GOING UP.

A further slight increase in the cost of living figures is indicated in the wholesale price list of the department of labor for the month of January.

The department's index number for wholesale prices was higher for January, standing at 131.6 as compared with 131.4 in December and 130.5 in January 1914. Though higher prices were also shown in January, the greatest increase, noted were in cereals.

The index number of The London Economic—B. up—nearly two points, and Scharbeck's index number, published in The Statist, was risen nearly three points.

Four rose to cents per barrel, and was still rising, while some grades had risen still more.

Bread also advanced in several localities. Rolled oats also advanced in sympathy with oats.

The other principal advances were in poultry, butter and cheese, stocks being lighter, and in raw fur and rubber, demand being better. Cattle, demand being light and supplies plentiful, eggs were downward, receipts being larger as the season advanced, except during a brief cold period.
